A SECOND MESSAGE.

The President Sends Another Samoan Message to Congress.

Late Correspondence on Affairs in the Islands Communicated.

A Proposition for a Conference on Its Way From Berlin.

The Maxwell Land Grant Case Decided in New Mexico Courts.

Another Samoan Message

WASHINGTON, January 30.—The president to-day sent to congress the additional correspondence relative to the Samoan affair, accompanied by the following message

I have the honor on the 15th inst to communicate to your honorable body certain correspondence and documents in relation to affairs in the Samoan Islands, and having since received further dispatches from the consul at Apia and the commander of the United States naval vessel Nipsic, in those waters, I lose no time in laying them, before you. I also transmit herewith the full text of the instructions from Prince Von Bismarck to the German minister at this capitol, which was communicated on the afternoon of the 26th inst. This appears to be an amplification of prior telegraphic instructions on the same subject and communicated through the same channel, and which being set forth in the note of the secretary of state to the German minister, of the 25th inst., was duly laid before congress with my last message in relation to Samoan affairs

It is also proper to inform you that on Monday, the 28th inst, the secretary of state was given to understand by the German minister that a proposition from his government to that of the United States, for a conference on the Samoan subject was on its way by mail, having left Berlin on the 20th inst., so that its arrival here in due course of the mail was to be looked for in a very short time.

In reply to the inquiry from the secretary of state as to whether the proposition referred to was for a renewal of the joint conference between the United States, Germany and Great Britain, which was suspended in July, 1887, or for a consideration of Samoan affairs as they now stand, the German minister stated his inability to answer until the proposition which left Berlin on the 20th inst shall have been received. I shall hereafter communicate to congress all information before me in relation to the Samoan affairs.

An inspection of this message is an official account of events in Samoa which is practically the same as the advices that have been outlined in the press dispatches

Land Grant Case Decided.

SANTA FE, January 30.—The supreme court of New Mexico to-day gave their decision in the Maxwell land grant case affirming the title to said property and dismissing the bill of the government to set aside the patent. The history of this case in brief is as follows: Shortly after the bill of the government was brought in Colorado a similar bill was filed in the United States courts of New Mexico to be held in abeyance until after the former suit was tried. Judge Brewer dismissed this suit and the supreme court of the United States sustained his decision. Notwithstanding this the department of justice ordered the New Mexico suit involving precisely the same evidence and questions of law to be prosecuted resulting in its dismissal by the judge of the district court on a demurrer, which decision was to day sustained by the higher court This is doubtless the closing act by the department of justice, as it is not likely they will wish to appear again before the supreme court of the United States Frank Springer was counsel for the grant company and the United States prosecuting attorney represented the government.

Fiftieth Congress.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 30.—Mr. Mitchell offered a resolution, which was agreed to, calling upon the secretary of the treasury for a statement of the amounts in the sinking fund to the credit of the Union and Central Pacific railroads on February 1, 1889, under the Thurman act, with the amount of each investment in bonds, the market value of such bonds, and the amount which would have been in the sinking fund if no investment in and consular appropriations bill, the bonds had been made.

The senate resumed consideration of the diplomatic question being on the amendments affecting the Samoan Islands

Dolph said that the question was one of special interest to the people of the Pacific coast, and that whatever might be thought as to the propriety of a general discussion of American rights and interests in the Samoan Islands and of the relations of the government of the United States to the German government the discussion had proceeded so far as to render further discussion desirable. The views which he would express would be his own individual views and should neither compromise the government nor receive undue attention elsewhere After a general description of the islands, their products inhabitants and commercial importance, Dolph reviewed the history of affairs since the United States government first took an interest in the islands up to the recent occurrence, which, he said, had involved the United States in some controversy with the German government In the course of his review Dolph came to the point where United States Consul Greenbaum raised the American flag over the Samoan flag in the harbor of Apia an act which had been, he said promptly repudiated by Bayard Coming down to the conference at Washington in July, '87, Dolph spoke of an agreement which had been made that pending that conference the status quo should be observed and Morgan asked him for his authority for the statement that the German government agreed to observe the status quo Dolph replied that there may have been no such special agreement but that the observance of the status quo was necessarily implied

Dolph added that if congress was to interfere with the matter something very different from the pending amendments would be required If he were asked what that was to be he should say that congress should direct the president to insist upon the restoration by the German government of the status quo at the time of the Washington conference, and to notify the German government that the United States would not permit the

CROWN PRINCE DEAD.

Several Doctors Were Summoned to His Bedside.

Rumors of Foul Play Create the Excitement

Officially Announced That Death Was Due to Apoplexy.

Crown Prince Dead

VIENNA January 30—Archduke Rudolph the Austrian crown prince and heir apparent to the throne died suddenly this morning at Mierling, near Baden. Apoplexy is supposed to have been the cause of his death

VIENNA January 30—The official announcement that suspicion existed in the case of the crown prince's death created the alarm of the people arising from a rumor that he had been killed while out shooting, as he went on a shooting excursion to Mierling on Monday, accompanied by several guests On the [illegible] death, rather a journal and great excitement The court theatres and all places of amusement are closed this evening

VIENNA, January 30—Up to midnight persons here still refuse to believe that the death of the crown prince resulted from apoplexy. All sorts of wild rumors of his having been shot by accident or design are current The crown prince always slept with his bedroom door open but on the morning of his death it was found locked. This fact is the subject of much comment. The Archduke Charles Louis the emperor's brother is now heir presumptive to the throne. He has three sons the Arch Dukes Francis, Otho and Ferdinand It is stated that Arch Duke Francis waives his rights to succession upon behalf of the Duke of Modena's property, and that consequently Arch Duke Otho is the next heir It is thought, however, that Francis' resignation was only provisional.

Rudolph's Death Announced.

WASHINGTON, January 30—A cable message has been received at the department from Minister Lincoln at Vienna announcing the death of the crown prince of Austria.

LONDON, January 30—The Daily News says: It is stated that both the telegrams from Vienna announcing the death of the crown prince were concocted and dictated at Berlin.

BERLIN, January 30—The following dispatch was received here from Vienna: The Austrian crown prince is not dead. He has been shot in the head by Count Hoyos, a member of the emperor's suite, and is now lying in a critical condition. The count has been arrested.

Notice by W. C. T. U. Convention.

The Women's Christian Temperance union workers of El Paso County are invited and urged to meet in convention in Colorado City the second week in February for one day's session. The exact date will be published hereafter.

If there are any who wish to join in this work who are not already members they will be most heartily welcomed We would be glad to have representatives from the towns in the county in which there are no W. C. T. U. organizations yet but where there are probabilities of supporting such organizations. A half dozen devoted, persistent women can accomplish a great deal

A county organization will be effected at this convention having for its object the furtherance of temperance work in the county generally, and the securing the organization of a W. C. T. U. in every town where it is deemed advisable by the workers in the town.

Remember this convention is not to be composed of elected delegates, but of all W. C. T. U. members and of those who wish to become such. Individuals who cannot be a member of a local union conveniently, may become a member of the county, district or state, by the payment of $1.00 dues and signing the pledge. I will be glad to hear from any who wish to join in this way. Will those also who expect to be present at the convention please let me know by postal as soon as convenient

The session of the convention will be from 11 o'clock a. m. to 4 o'clock p. m. with intermission to partake of lunch furnished by the Colorado City union

E. W. CHAMBERS,
County President (For Term)

When several days ago, it was announced that Mr. Fred A. Gay, the popular bird and shoe merchant, had made an assignment, it was a matter of considerable regret and surprise to his many friends. Mr Gay has been in business in this city about three years and has made many friends He was very much liked as a business man, pleasant agreeable and attentive to business He knows the boot and shoe business thoroughly, having grown up in it, and always carried a fine stock of the very best makes and materials The reasons that led to the failure were that his capital was limited to start with, and he had purchased very heavily, which the winter trade failed to justify To day Mr N. M. Campbell, the assignee, will re-open the store and begin to dispose of the stock. The goods will be sold very cheap although they will not be sacrificed, as is usual in such cases. It is hoped that in this way Mr. Gay will be able to pay all the indebtedness. The assignee will continue Mr. Gay in charge of the store, and it will be conducted as formerly until the stock is disposed of.

The Salvation army moved into new barracks last night They celebrated the event with a grand parade, headed by Adjutant Gifford, the famous bugler of the army in Denver. The parade was composed of about twenty men and women, with their tambourines two violins and the bugle. Arriving at the corner of Tejon street and Pike's Peak avenue, the army halted and devoted a few minutes to exhortation song and prayer. Adjutant Gifford accompanied the singing on an accordion The army returned to the new "barracks," which are in the same building as formerly, but on the ground floor Adjutant Gifford delivered a discourse on the history of the army It is not stated how long Colorado Springs is to be delighted with his hooking

Those of our readers who attended the cantata "Ruth" as presented by the Mozart Choral society last year will recall to mind a beautiful work charmingly rendered The cantata "Joseph" which will be given at the opera house on Friday evening is by the same author, and it is believed that the music is even more original and more pleasing than that of "Ruth" Prizes of scarf have been produced for this performance and no one should fail to attend it A matinee of Joseph will also be given on Saturday

Among the recent arrivals in the city was Colonel E R Busby, tourist, editor and painter. Not many people in this city are acquainted with the colonel perhaps, but he is nevertheless a noted character in the west The colonel has been on a tour of these great United States for over thirty years, and his name and figure are familiar in every printing office in the country The colonel long ago adopted a dress coat and a silk hat as the people's uniform for a printer on his travels, and rain or shine, hot or cold, he is always arrayed in them. [illegible]

At a time when the talk of Anthony in several directions comes from all parts of the union, it is refreshing to hear the New York Sun say of Anthony Higgins, Delaware's newly elected senator, "he is honest, fearless in both C and another letter by parts in democratic paper says of him "above all he is a man whom no man ever accused of using improper means to gain a point."

The very excellent bill introduced by Mr. Noble, providing that there shall be no more jail or executions was first proposed by the State Association of Sheriffs. That provision of the bill which insures that the executions shall take place at the state penitentiary is also a very good one, as it will greatly lessen the expense for the several counties. The bill has had some opposition, but it commends itself to the decent public sentiment of the state.

Several very earnest letters have recently been written to the governor urging the reappointment of Colonel Ensign as forestry commissioner of Colorado. It would be a great injury to the forestry interests of this state if another was appointed. Colonel Ensign is regarded as an authority on the subject throughout the country and will be much more efficient in securing legislation to protect our forests than any new man, however able. He loves his work and gives his whole time to it, and the interests of the state demand that he shall be kept in office as long as he continues to do the work he is now doing.

The governor of Kansas in his annual message, on the eighth of January, gave some very striking testimony regarding the effect of prohibition in Kansas. In Rhode Island prohibition has been a failure, for the simple reason that Rhode Island is composed of large towns and public sentiment in these towns is not in favor of the enforcement of prohibition. To show the open way in which the law is being disregarded, the Providence Journal recently published a map of Providence, showing that there are seven hundred places in the city of Providence alone, where liquor is openly sold. In Rhode Island the local option and high license laws combined would do much more to reduce the evils of intemperance. But Kansas is an agricultural country with but few large towns, and prohibition in that state seems to have been a success. We print the following extract from governor Martin's message:

"There is but one point of controversy in Kansas concerning the results and it is the cause of so much talk. Enough in a few of our large cities, and healthy to them has always existed, for on account of our existing conditions of transportation involved in the manufacture of the most were distilleries and principal consumption of the article to be sold in Nebraska and Missouri. This object was rarely mentioned by partisan speakers or newspapers. Public opinion is plainly apparent, but only since a marked change and there are now very few citizens of Kansas who would be willing to return to the old order of things.

"The change of sentiment thus quoted is such a natural Northern and intelligent citizen has failed to note the beneficent results already attained. Fully nine-tenths of the drinks and drinkers prevalent in Kansas eight years ago have been abolished, and I feel safe in saying that the most temperate orderly and considerate of people, the cities and towns. Drunkenness is not the nation has ever possessed the less disgusting and general prevalent of wife crimes, but it has comparatively ceased crime.
